

CABLE TOOL METHOD

It is a system with some critical issues related to the safety of the construction site that our company has cleverly solved by making a lot of investments on equipment in the last years. These investments have developed the dry well sector favoring the rotation technique that is separately described.